Yesterday morning about 2 o'clock, in front of Maud Stanley's place, corner Chapline and Nineteenth streets, "Dutchy" West and other rowdies became involved in a fight, in which pistols and handy billies were freely used, and black eyes and bleeding noses became as plenty as blackberries. Although several pistol shots were discharged, it does not appear that any one was seriously hurt. This same "Dutchy" West on Saturday night went into the house of Jennie Gray, in North Wheeling, and beat her in a most brutal manner. The police watched for him all night, without finding him, until Sunday afternoon about four o clock, when. Officers McCully and Miller stole a march on him by coming through the Hempfield tunnel, and put their hands on him near the tunnel bridge. He will have a hearing before Judge Crammer this morning, and then will be handed over to the State authorities for trial. McCulloggh—The brief engagement of Mr. John McCullough in Wheeling came to a close on Saturday evening, when Richard III was produced at the Opera House before a large and cultivated audience. We are glad to be able to say that the engagement of this eminent tragedian has been signalized by a deserved recognition of his masterly merits both as a man and an artist. Crowded houses upon both nights paid tributes to his genius, and as a fitting mark of appreciation he was entertained on Saturday aftermoon by the Wheeling Shakspeare Club, his hosts including many of our most prominent citizens. It was the occasion of an extraordinary departure from usual Wheeling researches.

But Mr. McCullough has carned the respect of his fellow-citizens as one of the few in his profession who have sought in these latter days to preserve the purity of the drama and to overcome the flippant tendency of the so-called modern stage.

LOWELL, NEB., April 26.-S. D. Richards the bloody butcher of nine people, met his fate at Minden, Kearney county, Nebraska, at eleven to-day. A crowd of 25,000 people assembled to witness the execution al though the law provides it shall be private. A pensixteen feet square hall been erected, built of light times. ed, built of light lumber. The crowd at noon to-day tore this down and EXPOSED THE SCAPPOLD TO VIEW.

EXPOSED THE SCAPFOLD TO VIEW.

Sheriff Kiern remonstrated after it was down, but they told him he did his duty and was not responsible for what they chose to do. At a few moments before ten o'clock Richards, in charge of the Sheriff and Deputy, and accompained by Bis spiritual adviser, appeared and ascended the scaffold, Richards mounting with a firm step. He at once took his place upon the trap, facing the vast audience. When the death sentence was read the only noticable sign about Richards was a tremulous movement of the lips and ingers. After the reading of the death warrant he began in slow, measured tones to speak, and said he was about die for a crime of which he was wrongfully convicted. He said his killing of Anderson was in self defense. He said nothing of the Harleson murder, which was the most helmous. He said he had faith in Christ, and

WAS GOING TO HEAVES. After prayer by his spiritual adviser, he said Richards wanted the crowd to sing "Come, Thou Fount of Every Blessing" with him, and two verses of the same were sung, he joining in. Then he commenced speaking in a trembling tone while being pinioned, and kept at it even after the cap was put over his face. At seventeen minutes past 1 o'clock the lever was sprung, and the guilty man fell six feet. His neck was broken, and he died in fifteen minutes. Save the demonstration above mentioned, the crowd was orderly.

of Jaquary, of the murder of Peter Ander-son, near Lowell, on the 10th of last Decem-ber. Richards suddenly appeared in the neighborhood of the murder, in October, and went to work on the farm of Mrs. Sarah Harleson, a grass-widow, whose husband was a fugitive from justice. The relations of Richards and Mrs. Harleson, relations of Richards and Mrs. Harleson, were believed to be the same as those of man and wife. About the lat of December Mrs. Harleson and her three children, respectfully eight, six and two years of age, disappeared from the neighborhood, Richards gave out that she had taken the children and gone to rejoin her husband in Texas. As she had often talked of doing this, and Richards told a very plausible story of having driven them to Hastings, where they took the train for the East and South.

On the 9th of December Anderson called at the Harleson house, where Richards was living alone, and, while there, Richards gave him a cup of tea. Returning to his home, a mile and a half away, Anderson was taken violently ill, and expressed the belief that Richards had poisoned him. Being recovered the next morning, he went over and flatly accused Richards of poisoning him. Richards denied it, land Anderson called him a liar. Richards knocked him down, and Anderson seized an ax and Richards a heavy hammer; both Richards was thereupon brought down to the State Prison at Lincoln, where he has since been confined for safe keeping. Although the murder of the Harleson family was infinitely more horrible than that of Anderson, the evidence was not clear, so the trial and conviction was alone upon the murder of Anderson, and the trial was merely a formality, legal, and no defense was attempted. Richards' demeanor after his capture was that of a man who had evidently got himself just where he expected to get, and upon his way home from the place of arrest, and after he got from the place of arrest, and after he got here, he talked with great volubility of his murders, and it is almost entirely from a boy, and he died easily also. In killing these two, however, he awakened the two youngest children, and the little girl begind him not to hurr her. also to have killed several other persons, but has not clearly defined these facts, for the reason that when upon the point of making confession he sold to a certain politicism of the State his whole confession, to be published after death, and then refused to reveal further facts. It is known, however, that his first murder was that of a young man named Crawford some three years ago. He was traveling with him at the time in the northern part of the State. They both drew pistols, and Richards killed his companion and left him where he fell. Another one he murdered was a young man whom he killed two years ago, just qutaide of the city of Kearney, and whose body he

of Richards since the trial. Richards then hitched a span of horses to a wagon and began loading the household furniture upon it, with the intention of leaving the country, as he says. Two men whom Anderson had left at the house from which he had come, seeing these movements, had their curiosity excited and went over to the Harleson house. PARIS, April 26.—The demand for the prosecution of Monsignor Forcade, Archibishop of Aix, for issuing a pastoral attacking Jules Ferry's Education Bill, was foreshadowed by Lapere, Minister of the Interior, at a banquet at Auxerres, when he stated he would make the Concordat respected by all the clergy of whatever rank: that if priests, instead of giving religious teaching from the pulpit, attacked the institutions of the country, or insulted State functionaries or private individuals, their deviations must be repressed. Jules Ferry, at Epinal, declared it to be the resolution of the Cabinet notonly to press the University Bill, but to enforce respect for law, both on irreconcilables of the Left and irreconcilables of the Right.

Rome, April 26.—It is stated that the Pope will shortly publish a document inviting all European Governments to unite in purging society of evils which at present beset it, and join in an attempt to stamp out Socialism.

The Observatore Romano positively denies that letters have passed between the Pope and the King of Belgium.

the Sunday law as odious as possible to the people, the Liquor and Lager-beer Association in Newark, N. J., have made ar rangements to stop all other traffic, traveling and unnecessary employment in that city to-morrow. The saloons will be closed city to-morrow. The saloons will be closed by the unanimous agreement of their owners. Several German Justices of the Peace met to-day, at the Academy of Music, and agreed to take all complaints that may be made before them.

This action was in conformity with the programme of the Liquor and Lager Assosociation. Special preparations were made by the German Executive Committee to prosecute newsdealers and paper carriers. In consequence of this the newsdealers held a meeting in the office of the Newark News Company, and unanimously resolved not to sell any New York Sunday papers to-morrow or hereafter until the authorities come to some satisfactory basis whereby the newsdealers can be indemnified against prosecution.

There are many thousands of newspapers sent to Newark Sunday from New York, and the news companies which distribute them to the carriers will not sake ork, and the news companies which dis-ribute them to the carriers will not take charge of them to-morrow. The penalty for selling a newspaper, including costs, is about $330, and if $00 complaints, one for each paper sold, should be entered against one man, it would be a serious inroad on his cash account, to say the least. "I can afford to deny myself the pleasure of reading my Sanday paper," said a prominent citizen to a reporter, "if it will be the means of inducing my German neighbor not to open his beer saloon."

Financial Review.

Naw, York, April 23.—Events of the week in financial circles were important only so far as dealings on the Stock Exchange, share and Bond list were concerned. The money market was casy, the extreme rates Call Loans having been 225 per cent, with most business at 3s4 por cent. Foreign Exchanges were Quiet at 34 57a4 88½. In Government Bonds the new Fours recorded a sharp advance on purchases for both home and foreign accounts. The Sixes and funded Fives of 1881 were weak, Four and a halfs firm, and Currency Sixes strong. Railway and Miscellaneous speculations are stive at intervals, with sharp fluctuations in prices. During the greater portion of the week low priced Southwestern stocks monopolised the chief attention of the operators; an advance of 2 to 10% per fcent took place, but sharp reaction followed in some cases. Wabash advanced 10% per cent and closed at a reaction of about 2 per cent. The Coal Stocks were very prominent in the dealings, particularly toward the close, when they advanced from 3 to 5% per cent. Northwest and St. Paul Stocks were irregular and in the main weak and lower, the decline ranging from 2 to 4 per cent, with only a light recovery at the close. Investment Shares were generally higher.
